

PLAYLINK

'Children and teenagers being seen and heard in public spaces is a hallmark of a society at ease with itself'. PLAYLINK policy

Tour of Designed Playable Places in Urban and Social Housing Settings
Saturday 9 July 2011
1.00 p.m. – 4.00 p.m.

PLAYLINK will be conducting a walking (and possibly London bus) tour of playable places in the Dalston (NE London) area of London.

The walk will be led by PLAYLINK's Phil Doyle and Bernard Spiegall. The walk will show schemes designed by a variety of landscape architects working with PLAYLINK.

Phil and Bernard will offer a critical account of each scheme, speaking both about their positive aspects, and their limitations. We hope to provoke a lively discussion.

Frampton Park estate. PLAYLINK scheme designed by Rachel Mooney and Phil Doyle

At the tour's conclusion Phil and Bernard will be delighted to continue informal discussions with tour participants in a local pub.

Cost: Pay on the day £20.00

Priority will be given to overseas visitors attending the IPA conference in Wales.

Contact: info@playlink.org to book a place and to receive meeting and other details.

Bernard's PLAYLINK report, 'Neighbourliness and the Outdoors: Communal outdoor spaces within social housing and mixed tenure estates' may be of interest to those contemplating attending the tour.

It will be found at: <http://www.playlink.org/pubs/Report-on-Stamford-HillAbridged2.pdf>

PLAYLINK: www.playlink.org.uk

IPA Wales conference: <http://www.playwales.org.uk/page.asp?id=485>

